Iranian, Iraqi businessmen gather for Iftar dinner in Baghdad

TEHRAN — Officials, businessmen and entrepreneurs from Iran and Iraq gathered together for an Iftar dinner in Friday evening at the Iranian embassy in Baghdad, IRNA reported.

Iranian Ambassador to Baghdad Mohammad Kazam Al-Bahgeli, and his counterpart from Iraq's Central Bank Ali al-Abadi and Sanam al-Abadi, the chairman of Iraq's National Investment Commission (NIC), as well as a number of Iraqi chambers of commerce and representatives of private companies from both sides were among the event’s attendances.

As reported, on the sidelines of the event, the officials held talks on ways of expanding cooperation in various areas.

Over 7,200 villages to be linked with National Information Network

TEHRAN — Over 7,200 villages across the country have connected to the National Information Network on the occasion of the World Telecommunication and Information Society Day, the Information and Communication Technology (ICT) Ministry announced, Mehr reported on Sunday.

The World Telecommunication and Information Society Day (WTISD) is annually celebrated on May 17 to help raise awareness of the possibilities that the use of Internet and ICT bring to societies and economies, as well as of ways to bridge the digital divide. The internet coverage will expand inter-net-based market through providing infra-structure and ICT development.

Syria says its air defenses intercept several Israeli projectiles

TEHRAN — The Syrian army says its air defense units have brought down several Israeli projectiles fired from the direction of Syria's southernmost province of Quneitra near the occupied Golan Heights, adding that the air defense units had “countered” them.

Back in 2016, Syria's secular air defenses had downed 18 Israeli missiles. In one of the reported incidents, six Israeli missiles were shot down by the Syrian air defenses during the incursion of莫名雷达 launched near the Quneitra province.

IRAQ WILL REMAIN PART OF ‘AXIS OF RESISTANCE’ DESPITE FOREIGN PLOTS: AL-KABI

TEHRAN — Iraqi Prime Minister Adel Abdul-Mahdi has denied the recent reports made by Al-Kabi that the U.S. will give Iraq exemptions from its sanctions against Iran.

According to Press TV, last week, during an interview with the Iraqi capital Baghdad, the U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo called on the Iraqi government to dissuade its Sunni Muslim ally from becoming an “axis of resistance” for the rise of Iran in the region.

The visit clearly was an act of under-mining Iran and Saudi Arabia and the national pride of the Al-Anbar province.

This visit clearly was an act of under-mining the Iranian national security; it violated the standard public rules and regulations and greatly offended Iraqi officials.

Such derogatory actions were repeated by Mike Pompeo, Al-Anbar Minister of State who made an unwanted visit to Iraq last week.

According to Press TV, on Tuesday, U.S. Deputy Prime Minister Adel Abdul Mahdi dismissed the comments, saying that “there is no logical or legal basis for considering Iraq an axis of resistance or policy that U.S. may even directly attack the groups that U.S. wants to stop.

Al-Kabi’s visit may be the last act of retribution for his comments, saying that “it is not going to end its suspicious sanctions and hostile actions in Iraq anytime soon.

These activities have been rapidly increasing over the last five months, in turn threatening the decision of State who made an unwanted visit to Iraq.

PERSPECTIVE

John Bolton’s political death

John Bolton, U.S. National Security Adviser, continues to promote war and terror and violence in his foreign policy. Bolton’s life is basically tied to crime, war and terror. In George W. Bush’s presidency, people like Dick Cheney and John Bolton have become the messengers of the White House’s defeat in the world. This time Bolton has also become a messenger for defeating the Trump and the United States in the world. The U.S. National Security Adviser is having difficult days. John Bolton has not been able to achieve his goals toward the Islamic Republic of Iran. Many American analysts say the National Security Adviser to the Trump government has become the symbol of the White House’s failure in the international system.

Bolton’s story is a story for American citizens: He is today a symbol of the embarrassment of all Americans. Bolton was one of the influential officials in the country since the start of the war in Iraq in 2003, by the George Walker Bush administration until 2008 (when the enemies in the Bush camp were in the role at the head of the political and executive equations of the country). Bolton and his entourage have repeatedly become the symbol of the failure of the United States in the West Asia region. However, Bolton’s defeat in the United States is now far broader.

John Bolton, the U.S. National Security Adviser, continues his anti-Iranian negotiations in various fields. In recent months, he has been busy discussing the presence of Iran in Syria and, on the other hand, engaging in negotiations with other countries over Iran’s sanctions. But the existing evidence suggests that the U.S. National Security Adviser is not going to succeed in this regard.

Democratic presidential candidate Bernie Sanders responds to a New York security adviser John Bolton “was one of the architects of the war in Iraq. In his book, The Bergman’s Chabot, National Security Analyst wrote, John Bolton, President Trump’s national security adviser, seemedingly hasn’t met a war he doesn’t love.”

Small ports can play key role in current economic condition: PMO official

The U.S.-China trade war could slash one percentage point from the current GDP growth this year, a senior Chinese policymaker said on Friday.

"We're going to continue encouraging companies to return to China and make safe future investment decisions," said William Jackson, chief emerging Asia economist at Capital Economics, at a press conference. "This is what China is doing, and I think it will do a lot to combat the trade war."

"They are going to feel a lot more pressure in the coming months," he added.

The IMF has called on Germany to lower taxes on poorer households and to invest in social protection, he said. "Germany has a lot to gain from a stronger social protection system," he added.

The IFM also noted that Germany has made some progress towards its reduction in carbon footprint, but more needs to be done to align with the Paris Agreement. "Germany has a long way to go to reduce its carbon footprint and reach its climate goals," the report said.

In response to these and other problems, Germany "must think about how to create a more balanced and sustainable economy," the IMF said.

ECONOMY

TEHRAN — The head of Iran’s Agriculture Development and Cooperatives Organization (PMO) Reza Razavi has called on the country to take advantage of the current economic conditions to expand its agricultural sectors.

The IMF urges Germany to cut tax and upgrade infrastructure

The IMF has urged Germany to cut tax and upgrade infrastructure as part of its efforts to increase economic growth.

"Despite higher tax revenues, Germany is still facing challenges to improve its long-term growth potential," the Fund said in its latest report.

"Germany needs to focus on improving its fiscal and social frameworks, to reduce the burden of taxes and計畫s for the future."

"The IMF also highlighted the importance of adapting the country’s tax system to be more progressive and to better target resources where they are needed most."

To this end, the IMF recommended that Germany:

- Lower tax rates on lower and middle-income households
- Increase spending on education and training to improve skills and strengthen the labor market
- Strengthen social safety nets to provide more support for vulnerable groups
- Improve tax administration and reduce non-tax revenue losses

"The IMF’s recommendations are a reminder of the importance of sound fiscal policies and the need for a restructuring of the tax system to ensure that it is fair and efficient, to support growth and reduce inequality," the Fund said.

Economic ties and digital links between the three countries are also expected to benefit from the agreement.

"The agreement will facilitate the exchange of information and best practices, which will help to strengthen the cooperation between the three countries," the IMF said.

Bannon confronts China with fringe theories

Global Times – U.S. right-wing nationalist Steve Bannon published an article in The Washington Post on May 6,_pvilling China's goal of bringing the world under a Communist regime. The goal of the Communist Party of China (CPC), he claimed, is "to be the world's most powerful superpower and the leader of the world's political order". The US-China trade dispute is "a fundamental clash of civilizations". The only way to solve this is to "defeat China". He also accuses China of being a "rapidly militarizing totalitarian state stepping up its military power every single year".

To rational analysts, Bannon is not just radical, but a bit incoherent. His theories are deeply rooted in his own mind and the complexity of major power relations. He is trying to make global governance and fear the basis for US-China policy. US-China trade war has boosted a sense of presence in Bannon. He actively launched the "Committee on the Present Danger" in February 2018, which he described as the "most powerful brain trust in the US society". He is clearly trying to create a strategic clash between the world's superpower and the biggest emerging market. They don't want to sacrifice their life for the sake of the so-called ideals of a few radicals. The US government has hit China with high tariffs. But when Washington politicians are looking up the stock market, they rushed to raise taxes to stop the approach. The only move China doesn't work in the US is it does not fit the theme of peace and development.

U.S. state senator hails Iran's key role in fighting terrorism in region

TEHRAN (Tasnim) – U.S. Republican Sen. Richard H. Black, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, has expressed his support for Iran's key role in fighting terrorism in the Middle East.

The senator noted that the U.S. military has been engaged in a "sadistic and malign" role in the region, leveling the US as "the world's largest terrorist sponsor" and parallel to ISIS.

"The growth of the so-called "Islamic State," and the threat it poses to the region, is not only real but growing," Black said.

"The US government has done nothing to prevent the threat of terrorism and the threat of Iran and its allies in the region," he added.

The senator also expressed his support for Iran's role in fighting terrorism in the region, stating, "The US government should be working to promote peace and stability in the region, and it should support Iran's efforts in this regard."

John Bolton’s political death

He seemed like a kid on Christmas Day. When Bolton became a U.S. national security adviser, he ensured that anyone on one side of the US-China conflict would be investigating American soldiers or intelligence agents as traitors. And when Bolton became an adviser to former President Donald Trump, he was eventually brought to the White House as US National Security Adviser for the Trump administration. Bolton’s dislike of the Iranian regime’s leader, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, was so strong that he would often refer to him as “the world’s leading terrorist”. In his new book, The New York Times has reported that Bolton had a direct line to the White House, and that he was in constant contact with the US military and intelligence agencies. Bolton had been a vocal critic of the Iran nuclear deal, and had been pushing for a military response to what he called “Iran’s malign activities” in the region.

Bolton has long rejected any constraints on American power. The happiest moment for Bolton was when he was sanctioned in the US State Department when he “agreed” that the amendment that made the United States a party to the International Criminal Court, which he saw as an attempt to limit US power and military leaders who might be charged with war crimes. After Bolton pulled the United States out of the agreement in 2017, he seemed to be on top of the world.

Bolton’s death marks the end of the era of the political death of Bolton. He was a figure of the political death of Bolton. After Bolton’s death, it appears that the US-China conflict will continue to escalate, with the US government pushing for a military response to Iran’s activities in the region.

Will Trump lose this time in the presidential election?

White House concerns about the Florida and Pennsylvania votes

By Saeed Sobhani

TEHRAN — Donald Trump, President of the United States, is very worried about his situation in two states of Pennsylvania and Florida. This concern is not going to stop until the results of the 2020 election.

A state-level survey by Quinnipiac University finds Biden with 55 percent and Trump at 42 percent in a head-to-head match-up in Pennsylvania. The survey also shows former Vice President Joe Biden has opened up a big lead over the president in Florida, where the Democrat leads the Republican by 49 percent to 41 percent.

"More than half of Pennsylvania voters say that they would not vote for him again," said Paul Sullivan, a political science professor at Florida State University. "The economy isn’t playing in his favor, Pennsylvania is deep underwater in Pennsylvania, a Rust Belt battleground state that was crucial to the outcome of the 2020 election."

If Trump is defeated in Pennsylvania and Florida, it will be his first battle loss since he moved into the White House in January 2017. Pennsylvania and Florida are both states where Trump won in 2016, and the loss would be a blow to his standing among white voters and the Republican base.

The survey also shows that Donald Trump does not have a good status in this important and decisive state. Florida Residents Opposition to Donald Trump's re-election as president of the United States is the most serious problem for him. In the 2016 presidential elections, Trump won the rival Democratic Party in states like Florida, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Michigan. However, it seems that if the Presidential elections are held today in the United States, those important and decisive states are becoming signs of the defeat for Trump.

As Politico reported, Donald Trump is in trouble in Florida, a state that's crucial to his re-election hopes. Just 40 percent of Florida voters say they want him to be re-elected, compared to 53 percent who want him to be defeated, according to the Quinnipiac University poll.

Scientists boost the carbon-capturing abilities of metal-organic frameworks

Metal-organic frameworks are a class of crystalline materials with exceptional carbon-storing properties. These frameworks consist of organic molecules and transition metals that are connected to create a network of pores. This network allows for the selective capture of carbon dioxide from ambient air, making them promising for carbon capture and sequestration applications. In a recent study, researchers from the University of California, Riverside, have enhanced the carbon-capturing capabilities of these frameworks by introducing a new strategy: the use of metal-organic frameworks to capture carbon from coal-fired power plants. The team demonstrated that their approach could significantly reduce the carbon footprint of such facilities, showcasing the potential of metal-organic frameworks for mitigating climate change.

If your morning routine consists of drinking coffee, you’re not alone. Coffee, the world’s favorite hot beverage, has become an integral part of daily life for millions of people around the globe.

Coffee is produced in over 50 countries, with Brazil, Colombia, Ethiopia, and Vietnam being the top producers. The process of coffee production involves harvesting the coffee cherries, fermenting and washing them to remove the endocarp, and then drying them to develop their distinctive flavors.

The coffee industry is not only about production but also about consumption. Coffee has evolved from a luxury item to a staple of daily life. People enjoy it not just for its taste but also for its social and cultural significance.

Despite its global popularity, coffee has faced challenges. Over the years, coffee farmers have had to adapt to changing climate conditions, which have affected coffee production. Additionally, the coffee market is volatile, with prices fluctuating depending on demand and supply.

As the coffee industry continues to grow, coffee enthusiasts can look forward to enjoying a diverse range of coffee flavors and blends, as the industry strives to meet the evolving tastes and preferences of consumers.

First ICT co-working space established in Tehran

TEHRAN – The First Iranian Information and Communication Technology (ICT) co-working space was established in Tehran. The establishment of the co-working space is the result of the National Research Institute for Information Science and Technology, and it is sponsored by the private sector.

Co-working is defined as a self-directed, collaborative, flexible and voluntarily work style that is based on mutual trust and the sharing of common core values between its members.

The co-working space hosts companies, startups and freelancers. The ICT co-working space aims to establish network between ICT startups, improve their access to markets through platform management of the working space, and to help events and academic communities to fill the gaps between universities and industries.

According to kohorpa.com, co-working is a growing trend for startups and for people who work from home. With co-working spaces, you pay for services, which include amenities like a great location, workspace, utilities and reliable internet.

Iranian Research Institute for Information Science and Technology is responsible for the project.

Iran supports breadwinner women power solar plants

SOCIETY

TEHRAN — Iran plans to finance income-generating projects for breadwinner women, with the help of local and international organizations. Ehtekar reported that the government is providing such projects for women to expand their income-generating opportunities, according to a report.

“The government is working to ensure that the income of women is on par with that of men,” a source said. “We are taking measures to provide financial support to women who want to generate income.”

In order to assist women in generating income, several initiatives have been underway in the past few years.

One of the initiatives is to provide financial support to women who want to start small businesses. By the end of last year, the government had provided financial aid to 10,000 women, the source said. Another initiative is to provide training and support to women who want to start their own businesses.

Ehtekar reported that the government has also been working to improve the income-generating opportunities for women in rural areas. The source said that the government has been working to improve the infrastructure in rural areas, which has helped to improve the income-generating opportunities for women.

In addition, the government has been working to improve the access to education for women. The source said that the government has been working to improve the access to education for women, which has helped to improve the income-generating opportunities for women.

Syria says its air defenses intercept several Israeli projectiles

The Israeli regime launches air strikes on the Syrian territory three times in one week. Such aggressive moves are usually in response to reports of Israeli drone attacks or missile strikes by Syrian military bases in Syria, including the Hmeimim base in Latakia, while simultaneous attacks against the target destroyed a number of buildings and wounded three Syrian troopers.

Syria’s air defenses foil dozen Israeli rockets fired at key base

Meanwhile, Syria’s air defenses in Hama have shot down several Israeli projectiles and drones fired by terrorist groups. Terrorist groups fired projectiles at Hama, situated in the Jabhel district, as well as the nearby Quehade neighborhood, the Syrian TV reported on Saturday. It also noted that the attack hit one person dead and several others wounded. Syria’s state news agency reported.

Israel disinformation campaign targets Nigerian election

A U.S. think tank that analyzes misinformation online said Friday that an Israeli-led influence campaign hosted by Facebook had been spreading fake news aimed at influencing Muhammad Buhari and his leading opponent, Atiku Abubakar.

Many of the pages and accounts were discovered to be linked with a United Front of Palestinian Organizations on Facebook and a group named Archimedes. On its own website, African Open Media, a media advocacy group, called for the United States government to support measures to conduct disinformation campaigns, boasting that “Facebook is the preferred tool for Israel... in spreading its false narratives.”

Another page with almost identical visuals, although not targeted at Buhari, was shown in the footage of as-yet unknown material. The page’s banner image showed adding the word “Jubhat al-Nusra” in Arabic and the Fatah Alliance, headed by secretary general Rajib Al-Maliki, in addition to all its backbones – the worst-recorded moment in the global world,” the ministry said in a statement.

But the documents have been killed in opposition protests against tests against Maduro’s government. An economic crisis has driven many of them to voluntarily emigrate, fleeing hyperinflation and shortages of food and medicine.

Austrian far-right leader quits over video sting as coalition teeters

TEHERAN – Austria’s vice chancellor and long-time far-right leader, Heinz-Christian Strache, said on Saturday that he was stepping down over “calamitous” video footage that showed him threatening to bring down the right-wing coalition government.

Freedom Party (FPÖ) leader Strache was shown in the footage with another woman posing as the niece of a chancellor of another country, demanding that the election that brought him to power be nullified and a new one held.

In the footage published by German media on Saturday, Strache is also shown meeting with a Russian diplomat in Vienna and proposing a company in exchange for political and financial support. He also promised to “help” him if he were ever in trouble.

The Vienna Post said it was irresponsible and a “mistake,” Strache told a news conference, linking the tapes he had with his wife and friends. He has dismissed the allegations, however, that he had done nothing illegal and that he was “the victim of a political assassination.”

This set of disinformation has clearly indicated that the United States is intent to create an Israeli client state that does not come at all in the frame, the “North Korean ambassador to the United States” on Twitter, as published by Baku’s popular security newspaper.

The report also featured a page that explicitly labeled itself as the “Project for a New American Century” and provided a link to its website. It also featured a video of a protest against the United Nations. The UN’s human rights mission in the country has沧派的领袖，胡塞领导的“也门抵抗运动”宣称，美国对也门的空袭“是侵略”行为，对联合国秘书长安南和美国表现出“愤怒”和“谴责”。

One of the pages is accused of spreading fake news about the Houthi insurrection, while another page is accused of spreading fake news about the Yemeni government. A new report from the Atlantic Council’s Digital Forensics Research Lab highlights sample posts removed from Facebook that appeared to praise incumbent President Donald Trump.

Yet another series of pages targeted the local right-wing and the opposition. They are accused of spreading fake news about the United States government and the United Nations, as well as spreading fake news about the United States Congress.

Israel’s election is in danger of being canceled, as efforts to discredit the opposition continue to escalate.

It seems that U.S. officials are trying to present Iraq as an attempt to achieve a withdrawal of foreign forces in the country. Iraq: New strategy to push Baghdad into compliance

The draft bill, which stipulates the expulsion of all foreign forces from Iraq but which focuses specifically on dislodging the U.S.-led military presence, was tabled by the Iraq al-Maliki government.

Meanwhile, some Iraqis are worried that the bill could lead to a withdrawal of international forces from Iraq, as well as a U.S. military presence in the country.

U.S. military presence

The draft bill, which stipulates the expulsion of all foreign forces from Iraq but which focuses specifically on dislodging the U.S.-led military presence, was tabled by the Iraq al-Maliki government.

The bill is an attempt to push the Baghdad government into compliance with the United Nations Security Council Resolution 2371, which calls for the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Iraq.

The bill was introduced by the Parliament's security and defense committee and calls for the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Iraq, including U.S. forces.

It also seeks to prevent the Iraq Airways from being used to transport arms to the U.S.-led military presence in Iraq, in violation of the United Nations Security Council Resolution 2371.

The bill was introduced by the Parliament's security and defense committee and calls for the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Iraq, including U.S. forces.

Many politicians across Iraq's political landscape have questioned the U.S.-led military presence in the country over the years. Calls for a withdrawal of foreign forces have grown following the defeat of the Daesh terrorist group in Iraq in 2019.

According to a poll by the Times newspaper, support for the withdrawal of foreign forces from Iraq has grown following the defeat of the Daesh terrorist group in Iraq in 2019.
