UN urges warring Libyan factions to negotiate

TEHRAN — The UN’s Libya mission and world powers on Tuesday urged the country’s warring parties to engage in peace efforts, as doubts hung over the blockade of Libya’s vital oil central bank, which holds oil revenues.

Given the OPEC and OPEC+ meetings, the meeting was held with the aim of informing the audience of the preventive financial losses over the blockade of Libya’s vital oil central bank, which holds oil revenues.

Demand has fallen as South Korea, Russia, and Saudi Arabia reach an agreement. So far, there has been no sign of an agreement.

On Tuesday, SNC said that guards under the command of renegade general Khalifa Haftar’s forces shut down the two key oil fields in the country’s southeastern desert, following the closure of all east export terminals. Libya is home of Africa’s largest proven crude oil reserves.

Oil-rich Libya, a country of 6.5 million, has been kept under pressure by oil-rich Iran as it seeks to maintain control over its own resources. The government of President Khalifa Haftar of Libya has sought Russian support for a shared vision with the commander.

The 76-year-old Haftar is the leader of the Libyan National Army (LNA) which controls most of south and eastern Libya, and has been leading the call for the “oil war” activities and production in the country.

Besides, the government must not allow the U.S. to add “another new virus” under the name of shutting down the country.

Despite the oil prices remained low as this novel coronavirus known as COVID-19 that emerged in China continues to spread worldwide while keeping pressure on global oil demand, demand has fallen as South Korea, Russia, and Saudi Arabia reach an agreement. So far, there has been no sign of an agreement.

EU’s Schmid: We have a ‘collective responsibility’ to preserve nuclear deal

The standoff between Iran and the U.S. has resulted in a new round of sanctions, with the U.S. announcing new sanctions against Iranian entities and individuals in China, Russia, and Turkey. The U.S. has also introduced the hardest ever sanctions on Iran.

The Instrument in Support of Trade Exchanges (INSTEX) was established by the European Union to facilitate legitimate trade with Iran. However, Iran has not been able to access the funds to pay for its oil exports due to U.S. sanctions.

The situation does not seem fair to Iran. INSTEX has been damaged by the European Union to facilitate legitimate trade with Iran. It was established on July 1, 2019, and the three countries of Europe, Germany, and Britain, the three countries involved in the European Union, have not been able to access the funds to pay for Iran’s oil exports.

European countries have been trying to continue trying to support Iran, but the U.S. has实施了最严厉的制裁。在2020年5月的会议上，伊朗表示将继续遵守核协议，以确保核协议的存活。然而，随着紧张局势的升级，伊朗已经放弃了遵守核协议的承诺。

他引用了Lina’s的话：“To combat it, neither should we,” he added. “In line with the #MaximumPressure strategy against Iran, the U.S. has imposed sanctions on Iran.”

There is an agreement that more time is needed due to the complexity of the issues involved. The timeline is therefore extended,” Borrell said in a statement on January 24.

The Islamic Republic maintains that its military power poses no threat to other countries and is based on its military doctrine of deterrence. China's economy on the brink of collapse amid corona fears – can Bitcoin lend a hand?

While the Coronavirus outbreak continues to cause fears across the globe, there are growing anxieties about its long-term effect on the economy of China which has already started slowing down tracks.

China has been hit by virus epidemics before and this time is no different. According to the World Health Organization (WHO), the new virus has so far sickened more than 80,000 people and caused over 2,000 deaths.

In early April, China’s steel output growth 23 times global average

Iran’s steel output grew 23 times global average in the first quarter of 2020, rating 3,739 percent from 24.42 million tons in the same 2019 period.

The economic activity of the country started to decline in the first quarter of 2020 due to the impact of the Corona virus, but the country’s steel output has increased significantly in the past year.

This is because Iran is one of the few countries that has not been affected by the virus outbreak in the first quarter of 2020.

Senior officials hold meeting on basic goods supply

TEHRAN – Dur- ing a meeting held on Wednesday, some Iran high-ranking officials discussed the issue of supplying basic commodities for the country, IRNA reported.

As reported, the meeting was chaired by First Vice President Eshaq Jahangiri, Tourism and Urban Development Minister Mousumi Eslami, Industry, Mining and Trade Minister Reza Rahimi and his deputy (Mohammad Musavi), besides Head of Planning and Budget Organization (PRO) Mohammad Reza Yaghoubi.

As announced last week by Central Bank of Iran’s Governor Abdolnasser Hemati, despite the U.S. sanctions and the most possible Iran economy has managed to supply $3.5 billion for importing basic commodities as the current calendar year (began on March 21, 2020).

The official said that if the mentioned figure, about $1 billion has been left for importing some more essential goods such as medicines, medical equipment and food products, and there is an abundant supply of supply products in the country.

Irish Daily: Iran steel output growth 23 times global average

TEHRAN – In the first month of the country’s economists with the government of Central Bank of Iran (CBI) in Tehran on Wednesday, various issues like CBI action to stabilize the currency market, open market operations, the importance of non-oil exports and the recent FATF decision were explored.

According to the latest report of public rela- tions, in the meeting Abdullahian Hemmati said: “Considering the country’s situation, the CBI has reduced the U.S. sanctions and FATF decision for blocking Iran’s trade, the central bank has made more efforts to stabilize the foreign market.

Metallurgical industry of Iran has been shown cracks. It is an area of crisis, there is no government assistance or bailout from the banks. This has put massive pressure on the steel sector. The steel industry and the automotive industry have been hit by the virus outbreak. Entire Chinese cities will be closed or restricted to movement.

In February, nearly 10% of the country’s companies have been affected by the virus outbreak. The whole steel market is on the brink of collapse.

According to earlier estimates, the steel industry’s output in the first quarter of the year will decrease by 10% compared to the same period of last year.

Oil rises on short-covering despite fears growing over coronavirus

Crude prices edged up on Wednesday as investors covered short positions after three sessions of losses, even as China added to its inventory build-up and signs of worsening infections worldwide cast a shadow on demand prospects.

The American Petroleum Institute (API) said late Tuesday, adding it could be reduced further due to the coronavirus outbreak.

Meanwhile, the United States is preparing to impose new tariffs on products from China to cut off goods as coronavirus cases rise in the world’s largest manufacturing hub, a WTO report. That’s a second tariff threat in a month, and it comes as the economic impact of the spreading virus is weighing on investor sentiment.

Crude oil prices lost 0.8%, to $52.72 a barrel, Brent, both hit their lowest level since the OPEC meeting last week. Brent futures are down 26% year on year to $66.76 a barrel, making it the lowest level since the OPEC meeting last week.

The International Energy Agency (IEA) on Tuesday, the head of the IEA told Reuters News Agency that China’s oil demand in the first quarter was 6.1 million barrels per day (bpd), according to a Reuters poll.

We talked to the Professor Agel Salah about the latest issues in the Palestinian conflict, and his views on the chances of a two-state solution and the role of the international community.

Why don’t you talk about the latest Israeli elections?

I don’t think the elections will change much. The situation in the region is now too complex, and the international community has lost interest in the Palestinian issue. The elections will be a waste of time, and I don’t think they will bring any positive change.

What about the Israeli-Palestinian conflict?

The conflict is a never-ending story. We have been discussing it for decades, and there is no end in sight. The international community has failed to find a solution, and the situation in the region is getting worse.

What about the recent developments in the region?

The situation in the region is complex, and it is difficult to predict what will happen next. There are many factors at play, including the ongoing conflict in Syria, the situation in Iraq, and the rise of ISIS. The situation in the region is getting worse, and there is no end in sight.

Iran urges citizens to postpone travel to Qatar amid coronavirus fears

In the wake of the coronavirus outbreak, Iran’s embassy in Qatar has issued a warning to its citizens to temporarily postpone travels to the Persian Gulf littoral state.

"All citizens with ongoing travel plans to Qatar, as their final destination, are strongly recommended to delay their travel until the public health situation returns to normal," IRNA reported on Wednesday.

The travel advice is in accordance with regulations and preventive measures being practiced at Iran and Qatar authorities in relation to countries where the coronavirus spread has been reported.

Sundarbans National Park

The Sundarbans contain the world’s largest mangrove forest and one of the most biologically productive of all natural ecosystems. Located at the mouth of the Ganges and Brahmaputra Valleys in Bangladesh and India, its mangroves support a wide range of fauna including a number of species threatened with extinction.

The mangrove habitat supports the single largest population of tigers in the world which have adapted to an almost entirely aquatic lifestyle. This has resulted in tigers losing sight and hearing on land, and salt water and mud crab as their main foods.

The tigers are an excellent example of the synergistic processes of monsoon rain, flood delta formation, tidal influence and plant colonization. Covering 133,000 km², the area is estimated to comprise 325,000 ha forest land and 435,000 ha in the form of tidal river, creeks, canals and vast estuarine marshes of the river.

In the Sundarbans, tigers are almost always on the move, sometimes up to 100 km in a single night, most likely in search of new territory to breed in, with the remaining 3.4% in India. (Source: UNESCO)

Iranian police have recovered two rare rhinoceros, which are estimated to date from Sassanid era (224–651).

The objects were confiscated from a band of illegal antiques dealers and smugglers in Garmeh, North Khorasan province, about 130 km from Mashhad.

A couple of days ago, the law enforcement officers stopped two trucks and searched them after suspicions of illegally transporting dozens of antique artifacts.

The culprits were detained and handed over to judicial system for further investigation, the report added.

Plans to shut schools and curb travel in UK if coronavirus spreads

Schools could close and travel around the UK could be restricted under stepped-up government plans to deal with the coronavirus, an official said on Wednesday.

Four countries registered new cases on Tuesday, while the death toll rose in Italy, which is struggling to contain the outbreak.

Britain’s chief medical officer, Prof Chris Whitty, said: “There is a variety of things you need to look at, you look at things like school closures, you look at things like reducing transport.

“Things that are not yet legal will be options that we will discuss with the other countries around Europe.”

Contingency planning may require that whole families self-isolate if one of them shows symptoms, in a further expansion of British efforts to detect and contain the virus, patients who have flu and other breathing complaints were tested.

Health officials plan to start with patients in eight hospitals in England, including one in intensive care, and also at 100 primary care centers, including GP surgeries.

Experts have warned that the virus could spread more quickly in countries where the coronavirus is not as prevalent, and those that have had relatively few cases since the start of the outbreak, 100 people have tested positive for coronavirus in the UK but have not usually been set down on a surface without spilling their effects to it at nights.

Rainfall in Tehran hits 69-year record high

Environment

TEHRAN – Rainfall on Saturday morning dashed the capital city forecast of 33.5 millimeters, which was unprecedented in the past 69 years. The precipitation station in Tehran was set up in 1953, and this is the first time it has recorded such rainfall rate, Sahar Tajbakhsh, head of Meteorological Organization said.

Tehran short of rain compared to last year

Since September 23, rainfall in Tehran has amounted to 147.7 mm, compared to 224.1 mm the previous year. The data shows that the capital meets above-normal levels of rainfall compared to this same long term event. But short of rain compared to the last year.

James Claret, a lecturer in psychology at the School of Health and Biological Sciences at RMU University, said the fact the journal had published an issue framed around Australia’s disastrous bushfire season was no surprise at all. "It’s a really good example of how climate change is amplifying the extreme heatwaves that have been observed this summer, the influence of human-caused climate change on drought and fires in Australia is much harder to disprove, but it has become much harder to disprove it is having an impact on the bushfires, "the paper says that in the case of recent events in Australia, it is no doubt that the increased temperatures of the past year would not be possible without anthropogenic influences". Arab League wants int'l observers back in al-Khalil to protect Palestinians

The Arab League has called for the deployment of international observers to all of al-Jerusalem and other Palestinian cities to protect the Palestinians against Israeli crimes a year after the regime expelled the civilian observers and killed 25 worshippers and injuring 150 others.

Later in the meeting, Saudi, Emirati and Jordanian envoys addressed the delegations in al-Khalil and called for a re-launch of an international observer mission in the area after the assassination of a Jordanian correspondent in the city.

The mission did not start its work until 1996, after the Israeli military agreed to set up an observer mission of an illegal Israeli settlement at the heart of the city.

The two parties said in a statement in July that the case pertained to “enormous controversies about coronavirus in Afghanistan” and the short notice for world leaders to attend the event would not be sufficient.

Malaysia’s Mahathir and Anwar in new political alliance

Malaysia’s decades-old political rivals Mahathir Mohamad and Anwar Ibrahim are forming a new political alliance, in a blow to the current government that is not aligned with any of the country’s four main political parties.

Mahathir, the world’s oldest government leader at 95, will be the prime minister, proposed a unified government to compete in the election, which he said that it will put aside for now,” Mahathir said in a statement.

Anwar’s Parti Keadilan Rakyat (PKR), which led Malaysia’s last coalition government, has 48 seats in parliament and Anwar’s alliance parties could potentially give him an outright majority.

While some politicians have openly dismissed the idea, saying it is not clear whether enough of them would give him their backing.

Anwar later said he opposed forming a “backdoor government” and said he would not confirm his meeting with the Taliban leaders.

The United Nations Security Council (UNSC) has approved a resolution extending sanctions against Yemen despite Russia’s demands to lift the sanctions, which are contributing to the humanitarian crisis in the country.

The resolution, approved by 12 votes with five abstentions, extended the 10-year-old arms embargo on the country, which is still under a U.S.-led coalition’s air campaign. It also imposed sanctions on 17 individuals and entities.

The resolution was a step towards maintaining the country’s power at the council, not to compete in promoting their approaches that go beyond political party affiliation, and to eliminate it completely,” said Al-Jazeera.

TEHRAN — Sohrab Moradi will represent Iran in the West Asian Weightlifting Championship. Iran was supposed to participate in the competition in Dubai with seven weightlifters but their flight was cancelled to the UAE due to coronavirus threat. Moradi, who won gold at age 19 in Rio has suffered two serious injuries during qualifying, will compete in the event.

Moradi badly injured his spine a year ago then dislocated a shoulder last July. He didn’t expect a good performance at the Asian Championships in Kazakhstan in April. Moradi is way down in 78th place in the world in the current rankings and probably needs to lift more than world record-levels in both those competitions to make it - but he is the world record holder in snatch and total at 191kg, both when he won the 2015 world title. Moradi had prepared for dozens of athletes, with qualifying rounds expected for the competition.
